SOFTWARE EXPERIENCE

Front-End Development (2019 – Present)
- I have been working on front-end applications for more than a year and I have built some projects using modern web technologies. I used vanilla javascript to master my knowledge and to learn some advanced techniques and then I dived into the frameworks as Angular and React.

Data Analytics (2019 – Present)
- I am familiar with MySQL DBMS, I can create, design and modify databases in this platform. I am also able to write advanced queries and to implement activities. I have built a small weather database system in MySQL. Currently, I am learning to analyze data using Python.

C, Python and Java languages (2018 – Present)
- I have some knowledge and experience of using these languages. I can write and analyze algorithms using Python, C and Java. I am able to deal with the programs of the most widely used Object Oriented Languages as Java and Python, also in an imperative language C.

OBJECTIVES

My first objective is to be able to create modern and professional web applications. In order to do that, I need to get some experience and create more projects to master the knowledge and the experience I have gained. In this period, I am also learning Mobile App Development for some startup ideas. To archive all these objectives and to improve my English, I need to participate in internship programs.
